Some Sound Advice

In this column last week emphasis was laid on the absolute necessity of every business man and artisan, in fact of every individual developing their old confidence as a necessary first step towards solving the present business depression and consequent lack of employment. There is need for confidence by all, in themselves, in our business men and institutions, in Governments, and in our great wealth of God-given natural resources.

Coupled with a return of such confidence there is need for the abandonment of present-day ideas of softness and ease and a renewal of an old-time determination to work. If there is to be a return of prosperity and good times, it must be preceded by the old willingness and energy to work—a return of those days when everybody was busy from morn till night and found real pleasure in their work.

Shortly after his accession to the Premiership of Saskatchewan a few weeks ago, Hon. C. A. Dunning delivered several addresses before public bodies, and the keynote of each address was the need for confidence and the substantial grounds which existed to justify such confidence.

Hon. T. C. Norris, Premier of Manitoba, in an address to the Credit Men's Trust Association early last month, laid emphasis on the same need, and on the necessity for unremitting labor on the part of all citizens.

If any men in the West today are in a position to size up the weaknesses of the present situation; if there are any men who are confronted with heavier responsibilities and greater difficulties and problems than other men; if there are men who might with reason feel a lack of confidence in the future, it is those men who as heads of Governments have had to deal daily with the scores of complaints and grievances arising out of the hard times of the past year. If these men can look to the future with confidence, and are willing to devote their best energies and all their time in bringing about that betterment which is to be had if it is gone after in the right spirit and in an intelligent, determined manner, then there is no reason why others should be faint-hearted or lukewarm in effort.

In his address to which reference has been made, Premier Norris made an important point which is deserving of the serious consideration of all workmen in cities and towns. If, he said, they desired to know the reason why so many of the brightest young men and women left the country for the city it was this: In the city men agitated for an 8-hour day and a 44-hour week. Every time they clipped anything off the working day or increased the pay by one cent an hour they created a condition which affected the farmers. Their men were anxious to come to the cities. If they shortened the time for earning money they increased the time for spending money. Every advantage of that kind cost something more in the production of food. Living became more expensive. More men and women were added to the ranks of the workers in the cities, with an inevitable increase in the number of unemployed and added acuteness to the problems which the city worker had to contend against.

Premier Norris expressed the opinion that the extreme labor man was thus standing in his own light when he advised a 44-hour week, because he took from the ranks of the producer on the farms and added to the ranks of the consumers in the cities. The balance must be kept equal to maintain the ability to bring in new money, and new money was that which was produced from the soil itself, and it was only to the extent that that new money was produced that steady and profitable employment could be provided for the city artisan, store clerk and office employee. Not less work, but more work, was the crying need of the times.

Another point urged by Premier Norris was that, along with a renewal of confidence and a determination to work hard and faithfully, there was a very great need for economy. In this connection he said: "The majority of wage earners and lower salaried men are living right up to the mark every month; indeed, a large number of them are living one month ahead of their salaries. If we can turn them around and get them to live one month behind their salaries for the next few months, getting them away from the effect of living beyond their salaries, success will attend the efforts of every person."

Summed up, Mr. Norris' conclusions as to the remedies to apply to present conditions, are: All citizens must develop more confidence. They must be industrious. There are too many persons who do not wish to work more than eight hours a day. Some people can afford to live in ease without work, but they are not many. If persons are not industrious they cannot succeed. They must practice economy. They can save enough money to get one month ahead of their salary, and they can easily do it if they make up their minds. They would find it was just as easy to live one month behind their salary as it was to live one month ahead of it if they would but make up their minds to do it. There must be industry and economy and with these would come optimism, confidence and prosperity.

Fleet of Flying Boats to be Used in Northern Manitoba

A fleet of five flying boats will likely be employed in Northern Manitoba during the coming summer to patrol forest areas for the detection of fires. Government agents who pay the annual treaty monies to the various Indian bands scattered throughout remote parts of the province will also travel by airplane, and thus will be able to accomplish in five or six days the work which formerly required several weeks.

After spending some time here, it came upon her suddenly that she loved Canada, the big crude land that had seemed so unfriendly at first. Read the opening chapter.

Under Soviet Rule

Slaves to a Harsh and Really Unintelligent Bureaucracy

In Soviet Russia there were to be no masters, or, in other words, everyone was to be a law unto himself. The madness has worked itself out, and now all men are slaves to a harsh, impractical and really unintelligent bureaucracy, and abject want has replaced plenty. We have been supplied with ample warning, which the sinister activities of Communist agents in this country, very busy just now, cannot cloak. Though there are at present, unhappily, no signs of a settlement, we still have faith that reason and good sense will prevail. The country has won one war at a heavy cost, and it cannot afford repeated assaults on its economic strength at a time when every effort should be directed to making good the ravages of the late struggle. —London Daily Telegraph.

Dairy Industry is Making Rapid Strides in Recent Years

In a Dominion-wide competition in which six creameries of each province took part, Saskatchewan butter has been awarded the first place. Scores were taken during the entire year 1921 and resulted in Saskatchewan being given the highest place among the provinces. Saskatchewan's butter industry has developed very rapidly in recent years.

For Better Roads

Spend $1,570,000 on Roads and Bridges in Saskatchewan

According to announcement made by J. C. Gardiner, Saskatchewan Minister of Highways, approximately $1,570,000 will be spent on roads and large capital bridges in the province this season. The Legislature voted $2,035,932 at the last session for public improvements.

This expenditure will be apportioned as follows: Roads constructed under the Federal aid scheme, $900,000; large steel and concrete bridges, $120,000; main market roads, $550,000.

It is estimated that a sum of $120,000 will be required for large bridges of permanent type, viz., reinforced concrete bridges of arch or beam type, or steel trusses on concrete foundations. These bridges will be located on main lines of travel serving some market centre.

About $900,000 will be required to complete the contracts entered into last season, and those contracts which will be called for this spring for the construction of provincial highways under the Federal aid scheme.

Lloyd George Dwells On Political Dangers That Confront Europe

Genoa.—Premier Lloyd George has drawn an alarmist picture of Europe. In addressing the British and United States press representatives he declared that the object at Genoa was to clear up the political differences which were full of menace. He compared Europe to seething racial lava, which, like the earth's crust, was seeking a proper level. This adjustment was full of perils. He emphasized that Europe must take cognizance of hungry Russia, which could be equipped by an angry Germany.

"The world must recognize the fact," the Premier said, "that Russia and Germany combined contain over two-thirds of the people of Europe. Their voice will be heard, and the Russo-German treaty is the first warning of it."

As proof of the danger, he cited the fact that there was no frontier line from the Baltic to the Black Sea, including the Rumanian, Galician, Polish and Lithuanian frontiers which had been accepted.

"I wish America were here," Mr. Lloyd George exclaimed. "Some people think we want the United States for some selfish purpose. This is not true. We want America because she exercises a peculiar authority; her very aloofness gives her the right to speak."

"America could exercise an influence no other country could command. She could come here free and disentangled, and, with the prestige which comes from her independent position, she would come with the voice of peace."

"But America is not here; so Europe must do her best to solve the problems in her own way."

Mr. Lloyd George gave it as his opinion that the disorganization of Europe would affect the entire world, including the United States. He was amazed at people who ignored the portentous fact facing Europe today. Unless Europe is re-organized, in other words, unless the Genoa conference succeeds in arranging a pact, he was confident that if not in his own life, certainly in the life of the younger men present, Europe would again welter in blood. "We triumphed in the war," he said, "but our triumph will not last for ever. If our victory develops into oppression, vengeance will follow, just as Germany's action which started the war was followed by vengeance."

"We must be just and equitable and show strength; we must realize that Europe is not on good terms and that storms are arising which we must deal with. We had hoped that the end of the Great War meant the end of brute force, but unless Europe's problems are solved, there is no assurance that force has given way to right."

HALIFAX EXPLOSION WRECKED HER NERVES

The reader will, no doubt, remember when a few years ago there was a collision in the Halifax, N.S., Harbor and one of the munition ships was blown up, causing great loss of life and laying a large portion of the city in ruins, and causing a great deal of suffering and distress among the inhabitants.

Mrs. Winfield Dill, now of Windsor, N.S., was living in Halifax at that time and went through this trying experience and the shock wrecked her nerves. She writes as follows:—"I was living in Halifax at the time of the explosion, and it wrecked my nerves so that I could not do my housework. I would take such nervous spells I would be under the doctor's care."

I saw Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised, so I took two boxes, and they helped me so much I took six more, and now I am completely relieved. I can recommend them to anyone suffering from heart and nerve trouble."

Official Report Says Shock Lasted for Fifteen Minutes

Tokio.—A heavy earth shock centering in Tokio, caused the death of a few persons and considerable damage was done to buildings in the city and their contents.

The earthquake was preceded by an eruption of Mount Asam-Yama, ninety miles northwest of Tokio, which broke out with a loud report pouring forth volumes of ashes, stones and smoke. No serious damage was caused by the eruption. There were many escapes of the narrowest sort from collapsing chimneys and walls. The earth shock was one of the most severe experienced here in a long period. Officials stated it lasted 15 minutes, the longest in years.

Drop in Canadian Sea Fish Catch

Only Increase Was in Herring Taken on Pacific Coast

Ottawa.—A report on the fishing results for the month of March, 1922, issued by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, says: The total catch of sea fish on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts for the month was 116,866 cwts., valued at $515,869. In the same month last year 100,833 cwts. valued at $724,531 were landed.

On the Pacific coast there was a big drop in the catch of halibut, only 10,208 cwts. being taken compared with 20,268 cwts. in March, 1921. The catch of herring on the other hand shows a considerable increase, 46,898 cwts. being taken against 18,304 in the preceding March.

What This Buffalo Physician Has Done For Humanity

The picture which appears here of Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N.Y., was taken in 1910. As a young man Dr. Pierce practised medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and wide for his great success in alleviating disease. He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery, the well-known tonic for the blood. This strength-builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective in diseases of the blood. It contains no alcohol and is an extract of native roots with the ingredients plainly stated on the wrapper. Good red blood, vim, vigor and vitality are sure to follow if you take this Alternative Extract. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This Discovery corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and purifies the blood. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N.Y., and receive confidential medical advice without charge. All druggists sell Discovery, tablets or liquid.

Plans Are Made For British Settlement Within The Empire

London.—In the House of Commons, Lieut.-Col. L. C. Amery, Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Admiralty, moved the second reading of the Empire Settlement Bill, the object of which is to make better provision than is the case at present for furthering British settlement in overseas dominions.

Col. Amery stated that the bill was intended to give effect to resolutions passed in conference with the dominions last year. He acknowledged that the dominions' present restrictions were necessary owing to their own labor conditions.

Two schemes are now submitted—first, assisted emigration, and second, land settlement development.

The overseas settlement committee, Col. Amery said, is now of the opinion that not more than one-third of the passage money should ordinarily be granted free to an emigrant. "The experience of our own country and of the dominions has convinced us that the capacity of the dominions to absorb any really large immigration depends strictly upon the opening up of agricultural resources," Col. Amery said. "Therefore, direct settlement of men on the land will constitute the economic regeneration of the Empire." Consequently he attached greater importance to the land settlement development scheme than assisted emigration.

It was not proposed to spend more than £1,500,000 in the present year, Col. Amery pointed out, but the normal expenditure was fixed at £3,000,000, of which about £1,000,000 would be required for assisting emigration. To this the dominions furnish another £1,000,000. Col. Amery estimated the annual emigration at something between 60 and 80 thousand—one thousand persons to begin with, and a considerably larger figure eventually if the repayment of the advances was added to the fund for fresh assistance. The remaining £2,000,000 of the United Kingdom's settlement fund would be available for assistance to those who settled on the land and developed it. Probably about 3,000 heads of families as farmers might be settled for a loan expenditure of £1,000,000, Col. Amery said, but block schemes might yield larger results.

May Float Loan Within Canada

Possibility that Government Will Make Another Domestic Loan Issue

Ottawa.—The possibility of the next Government loan being floated in Canada was foreshadowed in a report made by Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, to a deputation representing the Bond Dealers' Association of Canada, which waited on him for the purpose of considering the question of further issue of loans.

The recent financing in New York has supplied the present needs of the Government and it is understood that there will be no immediate further borrowing.

Mr. Fielding intimated, however, that the maturing obligations of the Government were large, that at no distant day further borrowing would be necessary, and that his desire was that then "the conditions would be such as to permit the floating of a domestic loan."

TELLS DYSPETICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of peppin pills or artificial digestants.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

Raising New Canadians Through Means Of A Broad Immigration Policy

"I have spent my life in a great section of my own province almost wholly peopled from the provinces of Bukowina and Galicia, and who have wonderfully developed the land upon which they settled," says A. S. Sbandro, a prominent farmer, who served two terms in the legislature of Alberta. "They were of farming communities to begin with, and in coming here, came to settle upon the land, to farm or to work for farmers. They have prospered, as they have made the country prosper. They are not like the immigrant who came here merely because the country offered high wages, and who now finds himself with less than nothing. I was willing to work for $4 a week, even when I was a man, but I looked ahead to that time when I, too, would take my place as a fully qualified New Canadian. That is the term I like to hear applied to the peoples who come here from foreign countries, and who come here hopeful of being able to take their places as New Canadians. Bring in such people, after you have hand-picked them, and Canada cannot regret it. Bring in a good man, no matter where he comes from, and Canada profits. Bring in a bad man, one who will never make a citizen, one who never means to be a good citizen, and no matter from what country he may come, Canada will suffer.

"Canadians need not worry where their immigrants come from. If only they know that the right men are coming in. They must be hand-picked. They need not be as searchingly selected if they come from Great Britain as they need to be if coming from any other country. Get the right men and women into the country, and you won't have the 'floaters,' as I call them. For instance, just as a side issue, I am entirely against men coming to this country leaving their families behind them. My experience is that 99 per cent. of those who come without their families, even though they may come fixed in the intention of having them follow, go wrong; just as I have found that 99 per cent. of those who have brought their families with them, make good.

"We want assimilation, but the assimilation is to force it. That is bad; let it permeate gradually. Teach my people how to farm properly, and in their quick aptitude to learn they are soon well enough off to take their place in their second generation without any outward differences from the Canadian-born of several generations. I have instilled this into my own family, and would like to give you a personal illustration of what can be accomplished in raising New Canadians out of a broad immigration policy based upon careful and even stringent selection. I came to this country under such a policy, as a boy of 12, being brought by my parents. Now I have my own children in the schools of Alberta; and only the other day my boy won the championship in the debating competitions in the high schools of the whole province. Assimilation of the right kind, I submit, brought about, too, I believe, by a sane, constructive and liberal policy of hand-picked immigration."

British Land Legion

Novel Suggestion for Means of Colonizing Canada is Put Forward

The novel suggestion that a "British Land Legion" be formed as a means of colonizing Canada, is being put before the British authorities and the public by F. C. Wade, Agent-General for British Columbia. It is proposed that members of the "Legion" should wear uniforms and be under semi-military discipline, would be guaranteed three years of farm work and at the end of that period would each be placed in possession of one hundred acres of land. During the three years they would have acquired valuable experience in Dominion farming methods, and would then be entitled to a loan from the Federal Government to enable them to finance the workings of their land.

By making your purchases from your home merchant you are contributing direct to the prosperity of the community in which you live.

Experimental Farm Facts

Valuable Information Gained Through Tests Being Conducted

A brief study of the reports of the various Dominion Experimental Farm Superintendents makes evident the fact that they contain much that is of value to the farmer. By writing to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, a copy of the report of the nearest farm or station for the district can be obtained. Numerous experiments are conducted at these farms and they are frequently so designed as to deal with local problems. At Beaverlodge, Alberta, for instance, some special experiments with alfalfa seed inoculation have been conducted. At Brandon, Man., we learn that re-cleaned screenings have been fed to horses with success to replace part of the oats previously fed, and that the screenings should be mixed with bran. For over two years while this mixture was fed there were no digestive troubles and the horses appeared to keep in better condition than before. At Scott, Saskatchewan, we learn that when barley was a little higher in price, screenings were profitably fed to lambs. From the farm at Nappan, Nova Scotia, we are informed, experiments in feeding steers have proven that cheaper gains can be made by feeding a cheap grade of hay along with ensilage corn, and that ensilage corn has a higher value in feeding steers than have roots. At Kapushasing, Ontario, tests have shown that on dry knolls or any soils lacking in moisture, better results may be expected from seeding alfalfa without a nurse crop than with one. Regarding sunflowers, the superintendent at Invermore, British Columbia, reports that the yields obtained compare quite favorably with field corn. These extracted statements by no means convey a fitting idea of the large amount of information to be obtained in the reports of the superintendents, but they illustrate in a very limited way the facts that are forthcoming.

The Modern Age

Good Things of Life Never so Easy to Command as at Present

I am writing this in the living room of my home on a typewriter that weighs no more than a moderate sized book. Light is provided by a lamp in which burns two incandescent bulbs.

In an adjoining room is a telephone from which I can talk to any city on the continent. On the wall is a thermostat which regulates the flow of gas in my furnace and keep the room at an even temperature of 70 degrees.

Almost within arms' reach are several shelves of books filled with the most profound and beautifully expressed thoughts. The floors of my home are cleaned with a suction sweeper, operated by electricity while the clothes are put through an electric washer and ironed in an electrically driven mangle.

My children attend a school where they are given a better education than the sons of kings could command a century ago. I enjoy all these things and yet I am an ordinary citizen with an ordinary income, living in an ordinary way. Tens of thousands have as much as I have and more. And yet I kick and wonder what ails the world.

Were the good things of life ever so easily at the command of the ordinary man as they are today? Don't we all do a lot of weeping that we haven't any right to do? And if we are not careful, isn't there a danger that we will upset the greatest civilization the world has ever known?—William Feather in the Philadelphia Ledger.

Canada's Attractions

In discussing colonization both the press and public speakers have pointed out recently that "Canada is one of the few remaining countries that offer agricultural lands on terms within the means of settlers of limited capital, located in a land of democratic self-government and with a climate acceptable and desirable to the white race."

Banners of Enemy Knights of Garter at Windsor

What has happened to the banners of the ex-Kaiser and seven other enemy Knights of the Garter which were removed from St. George's Chapel, Windsor, in May, 1915?

The mystery of these banners of the highest order of British chivalry was recently revealed by the Dean of Windsor in a sermon he preached in Norwich Cathedral. "The fact is," he said, "no one knows what has become of them. He had hunted high and low for them without avail.

It is understood that they are safely hidden at Windsor and will not be produced until the King asks for them.

Sir Henry Farnham Burke, garter king of arms, and the representative appointed by the late Sir Alfred Scott-Gatty, the former garter king, to take down the banners are the only two people who know the exact spot in which the banners lie hidden.

"When Sir Alfred Scott-Gatty died the secret of the banners was handed down to me," said Sir Henry Burke recently, "and I am bound not to reveal it. I am able to state, however, that the banners are perfectly safe and in good condition, and that they are at Windsor, where they were placed in a certain spot by Sir Alfred's custodian.

"It was decided when they were removed not to destroy them, as they may one day be called for by the King. Unless the King asks for them, it is possible that they will remain in their present hiding place for hundreds of years. It is impossible to predict their ultimate destiny. They are dead to the public."

Perhaps in some future century they will be uncovered—a strange relic of the turmoil of the great war.

Scientists Claim That People Of Rural Districts Will Live The Longest

The Livestock Markets

Reports Show General State of Trade is on the Mend

The weekly report of the Livestock Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture show an improvement of prices of livestock and a better state of trade than has recently been the case. In the first week of April prices for cattle at all the principal markets of the country were up compared with the quotations in March. Calves at Toronto showed an upward tendency, but elsewhere they were stationary, except at Edmonton, where there was an increase. Hogs at Toronto were unchanged, but other markets displayed a weakness, owing to the rush of supplies. Sheep at Winnipeg and Calgary were quoted not only higher than in March but $2 better than last year. Toronto was $1.50 ahead of the prices quoted at the corresponding period last year, but Montreal was down and Edmonton stationary. The total receipts of livestock at Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton in the first three months of the year were 118,854 cattle, 37,608 calves, 199,406 hogs, and 51,757 sheep, compared with 135,797 cattle, 30,105 calves, 159,907 hogs, and 51,609 sheep in the first three months of 1921.

British Columbia Potatoes for Cuba

A shipment of 500 tons of British Columbia potatoes was recently made to Cuba. The potatoes were all grown in the neighborhood of Vancouver city.

Shorter life for city dwellers is the sentence pronounced by Dr. John Brownlee of the British Medical Research Council, in a recent report that that body summarized in the medical magazine, the Lancet. His evidence lies in the latest Government tables of the expectation of life, but he can give no reason for the earlier demise of the urban dweller except that he ages earlier, which the reviewer in the Lancet thinks is begging the question. After giving his opinion that the use of death rates in a community is very practical, the reviewer goes on:

"At the age of 15 the rural male's expectation of life is nearly two and a half years higher than that of the inhabitant of county boroughs at the same age. At the age of 40 the corresponding expectations are 25.80 and 30.35 years; at 55 they are 15.48 and 18.36 years respectively, and so on. That is, life on the average is shorter in town than in country; and this fact may, perhaps, be put justifiably in Dr. Brownlee's words: 'It has been rendered probable that the inhabitant of the country is at these ages (between 55 and 65) biologically about six to seven years younger than the inhabitant of the town.'

"But the question remains as to the cause of the greater incidence of premature death in towns. Dr. Brownlee gives an unhesitating opinion on this point. Thus dealing with valvular disease of the heart, which has a higher standardized death rate in country boroughs than in rural districts in the proportion of 85 to 62, he concludes that the amount of this disease is much the same in all districts when judged by the life-table death rate; and that it is not a matter of more of the disease being present in a city, it is rather a matter of the disease developing at earlier ages.

"Dr. Brownlee's view is that premature aging of the tissues is an important factor in the earlier age at death in towns. Does this statement help us much? The fact is obvious that if death is preceded by senescence, senescence is earlier in urban than in rural communities. But by the term senescence we are led to think of processes which are approximately normal as age advances. Some of these may in reality belong to the same categories as the injuries—pathological invasion by microbes, mechanical injury, or toxins—which shorten life before old age. But to rest content with the proposition that urban life means premature old age stops short of investigation which may lead to the discovery of the maleficent agents producing premature old age. In cancer it may be a dietetic error. An excessive meat diet and the influence of alcoholic or nicotine excess have been suggested in this connection.

"Scientific knowledge is extended by increasing differentiation of causes, not by being contented with any readily acquired generalization, whether it is senescence, or ascites, or marasmus, or malnutrition, or poverty, or any other medical or social complex."

Neglected Literature

Many Books Are Forgotten that Deserve Better Fate

Even in our own Canadian literature, all of which is so comparatively recent, one may find books that have been almost if not quite forgotten, and that deserve a better fate. To how many of us, for instance, is Halliburton nothing more than a name? Who today reads "Sam Slick the Clockmaker," or "The Old Judge," or "Nature and Human Nature?" And yet Thomas Chandler Halliburton was perhaps the one native writer of British North America who really approached the rank of genius. And how many of the people of Ottawa have read James de Mille's "Helena's Household," a vivid story of the catcombs at Rome, or suggested Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad," or "A Strange Manuscript Found in a Copper Cylinder," which is both a fascinating story of an imaginary people and a brilliant satire on the modern worship of wealth and material success?—From the Ottawa Journal.

About a Birthday Party.

LITTLE girl I know has a birthday tomorrow," Stella, the Wishing Fairy, was telling her four Brownies at their End-of-the-Earth home, "and she is going to have a party."

"Tell us about her," Pimble asked.

"She will be 6 years old on this birthday, and as she and I are great friends," Stella answered, "it will be very pleasant to talk of her. She has a brother and ever so often they both write letters to their guardian fairies and these letters they put under their pillows. 'Sweetness' is the name of the little girl's fairy, while the brother's is 'Poppy.' I know these fairies very well, and they told me of the two children. I had several times flown to them through the night to kiss them in their dreams and to touch them with happiness with my magic star wand."

"But you very, very seldom do anything of that sort!" exclaimed Snookums in amazement.

"Do you want to know why?" Stella asked mysteriously.

"Yes, for I can't guess," replied the Brownie.

"For the very simple reason," Stella explained, "that it is more than seldom that Humans really, absolutely and unquestioningly believe in us fairy folk. When some one 'honest-to-goodness' believes in us then we fairies visit their dreams. That is why this little girl and boy are such friends of ours."

"But tell us about the party!" Pimble impatiently cried.

"How can I?" asked the Fairy with a smile. "As the party is to be tomorrow I have to first go." Which does seem reasonable!

The night after the little girl's birthday Stella was in such a hurry to get home and tell her Brownies all about everything that she could hardly keep from thumping her Butterfly (he whom she rides through the air) with her tiny heels. She wanted to reach home—oh, ever so much!

It is ever so much fun to tell people about things that interest us when we know that they are also interested and really want to hear what we have to say!

"Well," began the Fairy, "it was a marvellous party, even though there were but ten children. A man who had come with a valise a few minutes before the children arrived disappeared for a while. Later, all dressed up so that he looked for all the world like one of you funny little Brownies, he began talking to these poor little city starved children of all the wonderfully beautiful things in the woods and fields, and," added the Fairy, "the strangest part of it all was that this Human—this man—talked in such a way that I immediately knew that he had made friends with our fairy folk and that he understood their ways and habits. He even taught the children fairy games, and he gave them strange little gifts from our fairy people."

"Who was he?" asked Pimble in astonishment.

"Only a person whose heart saw into the beyond," answered Stella. "Only a man who some time or other had had a glimpse of the magic of our world. The children," she continued, "went home without painted paper and tinsel presents, but instead of this they brought back with them a wonderful day dream—a vision of things belonging to our End-of-the-Earth."

"And what did this strange Human give the children—this Human who seems to be one of us?"

"Little shells with magic promises that went with them," answered the Fairy.

"And what presents did the children bring the birthday child?" asked Pimble.

"Well," Stella answered, "as all her friends knew her very well and realized that she wanted to start an interesting collection they brought her things that could be kept and enjoyed, such as a wonderful piece of coral. It was a 'Venus' flower basket sponge. Another brought her a Dragonfly, while another brought her a gloriously beautiful Luna Moth. So," added the little Wishing Fairy, "from now on, this little girl has determined to collect the really beautiful things of the earth—and this birthday party started her collection."

Do You Keep a Diary?

The heroine of our new serial story wanted to jot down her first impressions when she visited Western Canada for the first time after leaving her home in England, so she kept a diary. Well kept diaries often reveal the most intimate thoughts of the diarist in a very interesting manner. Miss Elliot was no exception and if you read the story, "My Canada," which will be found in another column you will be more than repaid for the time spent in perusal.

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA

Caused by Starved Nerves Due to Weak, Watery Blood

People think of neuralgia as a pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may effect any nerve of the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica, but the character of the pain and the nature of the disease is the same, and the remedy to be effective, must be the same. The pain of neuralgia, whether it takes the form of sciatica, or whether it affects the face and head, is caused by starved nerves. The blood, which normally carries nourishment to the nerves, for some reason no longer does so and the excruciating pain you feel is the cry of the nerves for food. The reason why the blood fails to properly nourish the nerves is usually because the blood itself is weak and thin.

When you build up the thin blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, you are attacking neuralgia, sciatica, and kindred diseases at the root. The value of these pills in cases of this kind is shown by the experience of Miss Beulah M. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N.S., who says: "A few years ago, following an attack of measles, I was left in a badly run down condition. I was weak and very nervous, and had no appetite. A doctor was called in and gave me medicine, but it did not help me. My blood was thin and my hands and my feet were always cold. Then to add to my misery I was attacked with neuralgia, from which I suffered greatly. I was reduced to a mere skeleton, and did not care whether I lived or not. I was in this deplorable condition when I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was some time before I could notice any benefit from the pills, but before a half a dozen boxes were used there was no doubt that they were helping me. Then I got six more boxes, and before they were done, I was once more enjoying good health and am now strong and healthy. I shall always feel grateful for what the pills have done for me, and urge all weak people to give them a trial."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Increase of Suicides

Growing Complexity of Our Modern Life is Given as Cause

The Save-a-Life League has issued a report on suicide for the year 1921. The league officials have definite information of 12,000 suicides, and they estimate that at least 8,000 occurred which were not reported to them. The report declares that suicides were 23 per cent. more numerous in 1921 than in 1920, and contains the following observation:

The growing complexity of our modern life, the feverish unrest, crimes, divorce, bizarre and questionable dress and other things have caused deranged nerves, depression and less self-control.

The suicides reported include "10 editors, 10 well known writers, 40 college students, 51 school teachers, 21 clergymen, 57 judges and lawyers, 7 mayors, 93 bankers and 88 presidents of large business concerns."—From the N.Y. Independent.

The shipments of tree seedlings and cuttings going out this spring from the Dominion forest nursery station at Indian Head, will be among the largest in the past five years.
